

Terms of Service

Trias Coaching, a DBA of Trias Revolution LLC

Miles City, Montana | Mobile and video-based services

Version date: 2026-10-21

LAUNCH-CANDIDATE LEGAL TEXT — QUALIFIED LEGAL REVIEW AND FOUNDER APPROVAL REQUIRED BEFORE PRODUCTION USE

1. Agreement and business identity

These Terms govern use of Trias Coaching, the Trias Coaching website, applications, Native Calendar, Client Portal, Coach Workspace, Programs, appointments, documents, messages, billing, and reports. A person's accepted Terms, Privacy, and disclosure versions are recorded with the relevant application or account event.

Trias Coaching is a DBA of Trias Revolution LLC and provides mobile and video-based services from Miles City, Montana.

2. Coaching scope and limitations

Coaching supports awareness, goals, decision-making, accountability, education, communication, and personal development. Coaching is not psychotherapy, mental-health treatment, medical care, diagnosis, legal advice, tax advice, financial advice, or emergency service. Trias does not guarantee any personal, health, business, financial, or legal outcome.

Clients remain responsible for their decisions, actions, participation, and use of Coaching information. A licensed or otherwise qualified professional should be consulted when clinical, medical, legal, tax, financial, or other regulated advice is needed.

3. Emergencies and crisis support

Trias Coaching does not provide continuous monitoring or emergency response. Do not use Coaching messages, documents, appointment tools, or AI/automation features for urgent or emergency needs. If there is immediate danger, call 911. In the United States, call or text 988 for suicide and crisis support.

4. Accounts, access, and communications

Users must provide accurate information, safeguard authentication methods, use only their own authorized account, and notify Trias of suspected unauthorized access. Account recovery uses the general client recovery path and never exposes Founder-only recovery or activation functions.

Trias may send operational communications concerning applications, appointments, Programs, billing, documents, security, and service status. Ordinary email and public forms should not be used for crisis, medical, clinical, youth, or other highly sensitive information unless Trias expressly provides an authenticated workflow for that purpose.

5. Programs and accepted terms

A Program is a defined Coaching offering with a Program name, included session count, session duration, price, status, and any stated validity or expiration period. The final production Program catalog and prices require Founder confirmation before launch.

The Program definition and terms accepted for a client assignment remain linked to that assignment. A later Program edit creates a new or superseding definition for future explicit use; it does not silently alter a client's previously accepted Program, price, session allowance, validity, or other terms. Archived and superseded definitions remain traceable.

Program eligibility and remaining sessions are determined by the authoritative Program assignment and completed-session history. Appointment completion does not itself prove payment, and cancellation or rescheduling does not deduct a session unless the accepted Program terms expressly authorize that consequence.

6. Scheduling, cancellation, rescheduling, and attendance

Appointments are managed in the Trias Native Calendar. Optional Google Calendar synchronization does not replace Trias as the authoritative appointment record. Clients are responsible for reviewing their confirmed date, time, time zone, duration, appointment type, and Program eligibility.

The cancellation, rescheduling, late-arrival, no-show, buffer, or session-deduction rule shown in the accepted Program record, booking confirmation, or other governing agreement controls. Trias will not impose an undisclosed fee or session deduction. A reschedule or cancellation remains synchronized with the client chart and schedule history.

7. Prices, invoices, payments, refunds, and payer responsibility

Prices, payment schedules, client responsibility, and any payer responsibility are those shown in the accepted Program, invoice, or governing agreement. Charges, payments, credits, adjustments, refunds, voids, and remittances are distinct events. A scheduled or completed appointment is not treated as a payment.

A refund or cancellation right is governed by the accepted Program terms, invoice, applicable law, and any separately approved written agreement. Trias will not infer a refund, payer approval, reimbursement, or client debt that is not supported by the authoritative ledger. Voided and corrected documents remain historically traceable.

Private-pay and third-party-payer responsibilities remain separate. A payer charge is not automatically client debt. Claims, refunds, or payer-record changes require their separately authorized workflows.

8. Documents, reports, and records

Trias may provide worksheets, Coaching documents, invoices, receipts, statements, Program-utilization reports, progress reports, and other approved records. Draft, superseded, void, restricted, private coach, or internal technical records are not released as current client documents. Consequential client-facing releases remain governed.

Clients may use released documents for their own records. Trias frameworks, worksheets, templates, branding, and educational materials remain Trias intellectual property unless a document expressly states otherwise. They may not be resold, republished, or used to create a competing product without written permission.

9. AI and automated support

No Coaching companion is active in the current launch. Auren is Operations/COO, not a Coach Companion or Client Companion. Prona is not part of the current launch. Any future client-facing or session-support AI feature requires separate authorization, accurate disclosure, and any consent required for that feature.

Governed internal automation may support routing, bounded drafting, evidence, or authorized operations. Automated content does not replace the Founder, coach, licensed professional, or independent control required by the governing workflow and is not medical, psychological, legal, financial, or emergency advice.

10. Privacy and protected business information

Personal information is handled under the current Privacy Policy. The private business mailing address is protected and is not included in public pages, general client materials, public-distribution PDFs, unauthenticated interfaces, metadata, or public APIs. It may be used only in a private or regulated document that specifically requires it through the protected company configuration.

11. Acceptable use and suspension

Users may not access another person's account, attempt to bypass security, submit unlawful or deceptive material, harass others, misuse Coaching records, or interfere with the service. Trias may restrict access or service when reasonably necessary for safety, security, legal compliance, nonpayment under accepted terms, or material breach of these Terms, subject to applicable law and any governing agreement.

12. Availability and third-party services

Trias seeks to provide reliable service but cannot promise uninterrupted availability. Optional third-party services may be unavailable, delayed, or governed by their own terms. The native Coaching platform remains the authoritative source for client, Program, appointment, document, and reporting state.

13. Intellectual property

Trias Revolution LLC owns its names, branding, methods, frameworks, software, documentation, templates, and educational materials except where another owner is identified. Access to a Program or document grants only the limited use expressly provided; it does not transfer ownership.

14. Disclaimers and limitation of liability

To the extent permitted by law, services and materials are provided without a guarantee of outcome. Any limitation of liability is subject to applicable law and does not exclude liability that cannot lawfully be excluded. This launch-candidate section requires qualified legal review before production use.

15. Governing law, changes, and current version

These Terms are governed by Montana law unless applicable law requires otherwise. Material changes will be versioned and presented with the notice or consent required by law. Prior accepted versions remain linked to their acceptance evidence. The current launch-candidate version is 2026-10-21.

Contact

Trias Coaching, a DBA of Trias Revolution LLC
Miles City, Montana | Mobile and video-based services

amy.force@triasrevolution.com | www.triasrevolution.com